

Canary Wharf Film Festival starts Thursday

August 26, 2008 - 10:21 am by David Knight

The second Canary Wharf Film Festival kicks off this Thursday, August 28th featuring animation, documentaries, British and international short film programmes and music videos.

The music video show, which features videos for UNKLE, the Young Knives, Of Montreal, Spektr and others from mainly new and unsigned directors, is showing daily through the four-day event at venues around Docklands. The show on August 28th at the East Wintergarden is followed by a mini-retrospective and Q&A with director Price James.

There are also guest screenings, including highlights of the recent Rushes Soho Shorts Festival, and the whole event climaxes next Monday, September 1st with the awards night - presented by a host who won through an X-Factor-style selection process through bethemoviestar.com.

Programme and tickets from www.cwff.org.uk. Festival trailer here.

Recent Posts

White Denim's Shake Shake by Tom Haines

The Rascals and V V Brown by David Allain

Black Kids' Look At Me by Joe +Rollo

UK Music Video Awards judging now under way

The Kaiser Chiefs' Never Miss A Beat by Goodtimes

Search

advertise here

Links

In Your Face
The Look
Video Static
videos.antville.org

Meta

Register
Login
Entries RSS
Comments RSS
WordPress.org

Post a Comment

Name (required)

E-mail (will not be published) (required)

Website

Submit Comment